Next morning take out the prawns from the refrigerator and allow them to reach roomtemperature.

Fry, the prawns in a flat frying pan, with some cooking oil, and when they have turned crisp, take them and place them on a plate lined with a clean kitchen towel.

Take 2 large onions, and peel the outer cover, and make onion rings, and keep on a plate and sprinkle a little salt, and let the water ooze out, and after some time, drain out the water. Put a few drops of vinegar on the onion rings, and then over lay them on the fried prawns.
